Shri Kedarnath Dham

One of the most revered pilgrimage centres of India

Kedarnath is on the bank of the Mandakini River. Over 100,000 pilgrims come here each year. It is believed that Sankaracharya passed away here about 820 AD. Kedareshwa rShiva is the presiding deity. Behind the Kedarnath temple is an impressive mountain range, with the beautiful Kedarnath Mountain (6,970m).

About Kedarnath Temple

Historical Significance

The Kedarnath temple, attributed to the Pandavas, serves as a symbol of atonement for sins from the Kurukshetra war. It was reconstructed by Sankaracharya in the 8th century and is considered one of India's major Shiva temples.

Unique Features

Situated at the end of a lane surrounded by small establishments, the temple faces south, a rarity among Hindu temples. Its solid construction, along with historical relics like the modest doorway marking Sankaracharya's stay, adds to its significance and allure.

Sacred Linga and Rituals

Inside the temple lies an irregular three-faced linga, representing Lord Shiva in the form of a bull's hump. Pilgrims are allowed to touch and perform rituals, including worship and bathing (abhishek), with ghee. The temple also houses deities of Parvati, Ganesh, Lord Krishna, and the Pandavas.

Gaurikund

It features the Taptakund thermal spring, believed to be where Parvati performed penance, alongside the Gauri Devi Temple. Nearby, Sirkata Ganesh Temple commemorates the legend of Shiva beheading and reviving his son Ganesh. Additionally, 40km away lies the ashram of Parashara Muni, father of Vyasadeva, housing his significant image.

Devprayag

Devprayag, where the Bhagirathi and Alaknanda rivers unite to form the Ganga, is steeped in tradition and mythology. Legend has it that Lord Rama and King Dasharath performed penance here. The town hosts the Raghunathji Temple and is part of the Panch Prayag, attracting pilgrims on the Chardham yatra route.
